"An Habitation and a Name"

That world, that void eternal, whose clear light
We long for, we draw near alone.
Not one whose hand we hold in dearest confidence
Knows when the spirit beats its seeking wings
Through lucid ether.
But in the midst of shadowy events
That flicker here,
Is it blind striving to perfect an earthly joy
That draws to us that fleetingly held fragment
Of Life Divine?

THIRTY-THREE YEARS AGO

many a person in Hays or nearabouts was asking his neighbor, "How long do you think it'll last?" The other would then sagely agree that before long the land so recently allotted to the new school just south of town would be open again for homesteading. It was with this spirit that Fort Hays Normal School, Branch of the State Normal School of Emporia, opened. Times were hard and the problems were many and difficult, but somehow or other they were solved.

Students had to make their own way and they managed it in many ingenious ways. The heavy snows that winter made the walk to the school in the Hospital building at old Fort Hays a long and cold one. Two enterprising young men students were hired by the city of Hays to provide means of transportation to the school. They managed to get hold of a light wagon that was covered, and after that, on every snowy morning, the pupils of the Fort Hays Normal School would collect at the Postoffice to await their "bus" and would cheerfully ride to school.

All of that was years ago, but that same spirit of cheerfully belittling hardships still exists on the campus; it is this heritage from our school that enables us, her sons and daughters, to carry on in a way always complimentary to her name.

AND ON THIS FOUNDATION OUR STORY THIS YEAR BEGINS

LYMAN D. WOOSTER
Professor of Zoology

ONE of the first instructors to join the college after its establishment in a new location immediately west of Hays, was Lyman D. Wooster. Professor Wooster came to this school in 1909 and has remained here as an instructor until the present time. In recognition of this long and honored service, we respectfully dedicate this book to him, hoping that his faithful record may be an inspiration to all.

PRESIDENT C. E. RARICK

ON November 30, 1934, Dr. C. E. Rarick was appointed president of the Fort Hays Kansas State College, taking the place of the late President W. A. Lewis. Dr. Rarick had been serving as acting president, and since his appointment to the presidency has adequately shown his ability as an executive and leader. Fort Hays State may reasonably be proud of her new president.

THE GENIUS OF THE PRAIRIE

No beauty ever bloomed but that it rose Responsive to our thoughts that lie asleep
Like shadows in unfathomable deep;
What stuff such dreams are made of no man knows.

And to create is only to disclose
What lies within. The prairie poet sings
Tones of low winds, far lonely echoings;
His hues are limpid wine-and-amber glows
Of summer dawn, or sunset's vivid red,
Or distant pale-blue shimmerings of prairie heat;
His rhythms, slowly pulsing, ocean-spiced,
Like the long sweep and dip of blowing wheat.
Would each could live his poem in the might
Of God's creation, ere death brings the night!

FORT HAYS KAN

Introducing the College, Its Buildings, and Its Faculty, just as it appears to a stranger on the campus.

By MARJORIE WALLERSTEDT

FROM one frame building, two faculty members and 34 students our college has grown to nine large stone buildings, 57 faculty members and over 800 students. All this has taken place in the last 33 years. The land site of the college includes approximately 4,000 acres and the campus proper covers 800 acres. The buildings are of native stone and are modern and commodious. An irrigation plant provides water for the trees and shrubbery on the campus. Cedar, poplar, elm, maple, walnut, hackberry, olive, spruce, ash, pine, and sycamore trees may be seen on the campus. Adjoining the College grounds are the Fort Hays Frontier Historical Park and the Fort Hays Experiment Station, which is the largest of its kind in the world. Two buffalo live on the pasture to the northeast of the campus and are living reminders of the huge herds that formerly wandered over the prairies. Big Creek, near the campus, is a popular place for boating, fishing, and skating in season. Many picnics and hikes are enjoyed along the inviting course of the stream. The athletic field is so arranged that a soccer field, a track, and a football field are available to the student. The barracks at the fair grounds were remodeled this summer and 100 boys have lived in them this year. It is called Camp Lewis and is efficiently organized.

The first building the student enters when starting to college at Fort Hays Kansas State is the Coliseum. The registration and business offices are usually the first offices entered, and both of these are conveniently located near the entrance of this building. In the business office are found the president's office with President Rarick; Cora Bibbens, his secretary; and Margaret McJimsey, financial secretary. In the registration office, Dean Lee aids the students in enrolling, with the help of Mabel McCoy and Phyllis Shumaker.

The W. A. A. has a room and headquarters in this building and each year the organization sponsors a Play Day to which high schools all over the state are invited to attend.

The third floor of the Coliseum is devoted to music. Prof. Malloy, Prof. Hobart Davis, Prof. Paul Beckhelm, and Miss Lucille Felten train the music students. Private practice rooms make it easier for the student.

From the main lobby one can enter the amphitheater where 2,500 people may be seated and watch a basket-ball game played on the floor, which is 60 by 120 feet. The regional high school basket-ball tournaments are held here each year, the annual Music Festival has its headquarters here, and the final awarding of the prizes takes place here.

The men's and women's gymnasiums are also in the Coliseum. W. C. "Jack" Riley, Paul "Busch" Gross, and James "Jim" Yeager have charge of all men's sports while Miss Geneva Millett and Miss Elizabeth Barbour are the heads of the women's sports. The outdoor sports classes are under the direction of this department.

The swimming pool is located in the Coliseum and is in use almost continuously. Each year the Red Cross Life-Saving classes are conducted here.

Dr. E. F. Morris, who has his offices on the second floor, keeps the students in good health. A health chart for each student is kept here and the student's health is checked regularly.

The band and orchestra have their rehearsals on this floor in a secluded corner. (Some say it isn't secluded enough when a new piece is being practiced.)

*Dr. Walker, Prof. Parker, Dr. Moreland.
Prof. Rankin, Prof. Albertson, Prof. Wooster.*

DR. R. R. MACGREGOR
Head of the English Department

Walter Wallerstedt is the director of printing, and the print shop is located in the back of the Coliseum. The college newspaper and all the college publications are printed here.

Picken Hall, named for the first president of the College, was remodeled in 1926, and contains the auditorium and the training school, of which Dr. Robert T. McGrath is the director. Miss Mary Mae Paul, Miss Gaynelle Davis, Miss Jessie Pearce, Mrs. Florence Markwell, Mrs. Pearl Cruise, Mrs. Emma Golden, Miss Rosella McCarroll, Miss Maude Gorham, and Professor Apple are the supervisors of the various departments of the training school.

The English department, with Dr. R. R. Macgregor, Prof. J. R. Start, Prof. T. W. Wells, Mrs. Thelma Hruza, and Miss Ivyl Barker, is located in Picken Hall. The commercial department is located on the third floor and is under the direction of Prof. L. W. Thompson and Dr. E. R. McCartney. During all hours of day the click of many typewriters makes a chorus for the busy scratching of the shorthand students. Fred Wagner, custodian, and Alfred Havemann, carpenter, have their offices and workshops in the basement of this building.

The Industrial Building houses the home economics, art, woodworking, and industrial arts departments. Miss Margaret Haggart, Miss Manetta Heidman, Miss Mabel Vandiver, and Prof. Edwin Davis, head the respective departments. The laboratories for each are equipped with the best apparatus and adequate facilities for every student. The Home Economics Club and the Art Club hold their meetings here. The smell of paints and of food is pleasantly mixed with the smell of varnish in this building.

Next: Miss Barrell, Miss Drescher, Dr. Streeter, and Miss Williams in a conference concerning Library matters.

The library, one of the most beautiful in the state, contains 40,000 volumes and receives 265 periodicals and 96 newspapers; many private libraries have been donated to the general library. The reading room is large enough to accommodate 300 students at one time. F. B. Streeter, Miss Mary Williams, Miss Margaret Drescher, and Miss Mary Barrett keep the library in excellent condition. The Y. M. C. A. has a room in the library which they have reserved and which they have furnished for their meetings.

The history department is located on the ground floor of the library. Prof. R. L.

Parker, Dr. Willis Walker, and Dr. W. D. Moreland are the instructors in this field.

Four noted museums are located on the first floor of the library. A natural history, geological, mycological, and historical museum compose the group. An Augsburg Bible, over 400 years old, is located in this museum. Much time, thought, and money have been invested to make these things available to the public. This library was named in honor of Col. Sandy Forsyth, a true soldier of the plains.

The newest building is the Science Hall, which was completed in 1929. Several departments are housed here. Prof. Roy Rankin is in charge of chemistry; Dr. H. A. Zinszer, of the physics and astronomy departments. The laboratories for these departments are fully equipped with electricity and gas. The observatory, where there is a ten-inch telescope, affords practical experience for the "star-gazers," and there are smaller telescopes for individual use.

Dr. H. B. Reed, Dr. G. A. Kelly, and Miss Maude Gorham comprise the psychology department. Many experiments are carried on here and a clinic has been established to aid the work. The furniture in all the laboratories has been made on special order for the various departments.

The biological sciences, including agriculture, are under the direction of Prof. L. D. Wooster, Prof. Fred Albertson, Dr. A. W. Barton, and Prof. "Jim" Rouse.

The mathematics department is under the supervision of Prof. E. E. Colyer and Prof. Walter Warnock.

Dr. C. F. Wiest is the instructor of philosophy and Biblical literature.

Languages which are included in the curriculum are French, Spanish, Italian, Latin, and German. Prof. Modesto Jacobini, Prof. C. H. Brooks, and Mrs. Emma Golden are the instructors in this work.

Also, in the Science Hall, is a collection of 30,000 mycological specimens which is probably unsurpassed in the world. This collection was made by the late Dr. Bartholomew.

The social center of the campus is the Woman's Building. The office of the dean of women, Miss Elizabeth Agnew, is located here and sorority and fraternity parties, varsities, and other social activities are held here. This year the victorious football team held their annual banquet in this building.

Custer Hall is the home of 86 girls during the school year. "Mother" McKenna sees that all runs smoothly at the "dorm" which is located across Big Creek and now there is a new bridge built spanning the water.

All campus sidewalks lead to Cody Commons, and why not? Mrs. Fitchy always has good meals planned. Student and college banquets are held here, where 360 people may be seated at one time.

The power plant, which was rebuilt in 1932, is under the management of Henry Early, and furnishes the heat for all the buildings. Incidentally, the whistle which blows for classes is also at the power plant.

The greenhouse is under the direction of Professor Albertson, and is maintained by students. Flowers may be obtained here at all times.

"Tony" Gross is the electrician and also driver of the school cars, which he keeps in readiness at the garage on the campus. The new college bus is the latest addition to the garage.

The curriculum now consists of four groups instead of eight, as formerly. The Humanities Group includes English, Literature, Speech, Journalism, Latin, French, Spanish, German, and Italian. Music instruction in piano, pipe organ, stringed instruments, wind instruments, and voice, philosophy, and Biblical literature.

The Biological Sciences Group includes Agriculture, Botany, Health and Physical Education, Home Economics, Psychology, and Zoology.

The third group is Physical Science, which includes Chemistry, Physics, Astronomy and Math.

The fourth group, Social Science, includes History, Political Science, Sociology, Economics, Business Administration, Secretarial work, and Education, which includes all the phases of education, including practical teaching in the training school under supervisors of the department.

OUR campus is once more alive. Some of the throng are right at home but the biggest percentage are left wandering from floor to floor of the buildings. Curious eyes are focused at these new beginners, and sometimes the criticism is a little unjust. We must not forget that we, too, were new on this campus.

Our faculty is only too willing to help. In previous years never has there been such a well-arranged week as has been worked out this past season. There is always one initiation to college that never fails to do its part to bring the freshmen into a closer bondage. The administering of the entrance examinations, which are more commonly called the "freshmen tests," helps in the great work of a greater and more unified campus life.

Under the supervision of Dean F. B. Lee and his assistants, Dr. H. B. Reed, Dr. George

HOW IT ALL BEGINS

*The last part of enrollment—
Freshmen getting their enrollment books checked*

Kelly, Dr. R. T. McGrath, and Miss Maude Gorham we had a successful reproduction of the new plan freshman week.

The Freshman Ceremonial began with a dinner which was served in the Coliseum. The dinner originally was to be served at Cody Commons, but since our freshman enrollment totalled nearly four hundred, we could hardly expect to serve them there. The upper classmen humbly bowed at the feet of their under classmen, when they consented to serve the throng of new students. I wonder just how appreciative they really were, for some of them seemed to get a great deal of enjoyment by calling them "servant" and similar names. Our upper classmen were only too willing to bow to them for with such humility they were given a good opportunity to survey the group as a whole and the Greeks lost no time in eyeing the prospective rushees. Along with this dinner, there was a short program in charge of Dean Agnew, Miss Mae Paul, and Mr. Beckhelm. A few stragglers who did not belong at the dinner slipped in for a few moments to hear the freshmen make their first attempts at school loyalty and raise their young voices in the school anthem. Later, a convocation program was held and was participated in by James Wickizer, representative of the student council, and President C. E. Rarick, who addressed the convocation.

The second session of convocation took place Tuesday morning in Picken Hall at which time information about the college curricula was the prevailing theme. The main information was given by Dean Floyd B. Lee and a little prep talk was given by R. R. Macgregor on the well established theme of budgeting of time, followed by a short talk on extra-curricular problems by Dr. E. R. McCartney. After the views of these very prominent men were given, a campus inspection took place. The campus was divided into fifteen different points of interest to students and each particular place had an expositor chosen from members of the faculty.

Tuesday afternoon the men and women were divided into separate convocation groups for further instruction and information. Following the afternoon convocation there was a stunt program in the Coliseum arena under the direction of Prof. J. R. Start, Miss Elizabeth Barbour, Miss Geneva Millett, Miss Jessie Pearce, and Prof. R. W. Albertson. Perhaps the most popular thing about this party was the dance that was held immediately after the refreshments were served.

Wednesday, of course, was enrollment day and the freshmen were divided into fifteen different groups and each group was assigned to a different enrollment place under an assistant and faculty advisor. Here the student's problems were ironed out and the semester's work was assigned according to requirements and hours. The results of the freshmen tests determined just how many of our college freshmen were to be exempt from the survey courses. A list of 124 names was to be exempted and allowed to enroll in regular and more select college courses.

All during this freshman week began the informal rushing of the sororities and fraternities. New acquaintances came to life in a realistic way. Summer correspondence once more brought us back to realism. Our freshmen were being introduced into the social circles of the college. The aims of the Greeks were being fulfilled, and laying aside all thoughts of the new studies the new members of our campus had their first tastes of college social life.

The upper classmen had no part in the week's activities except to serve at the banquet, give what talent they had for the programs, and in other ways make themselves useful. As far as they were concerned, enrollment meant only the usual long waits just to get your enrollment book; fill out the trial enrollment; wait some more until the slip was checked and passed; then spend long hours filling out your book. After that another long wait until you could pay your fees at the business office. Then you were through—if you were lucky. Usually, there was always a conflict between classes you needed, or else a certain class was full. But all the waiting served admirably as a means of renewing acquaintances and exchanging gossip of the summer.

Enrollment at the William Picken School has reached around 156, the highest the school has ever had. Dr. R. T. McGrath, who heads the educational department, began early with his plans for those who enrolled in teachers' training courses. There are any number of different divisions and each division is headed by some instructor in William Picken. Practical training is the theme of the courses. We are especially fortunate in having such a good place to secure our education and knowledge of the teaching profession.

Each group is given special instruction and is sub-divided into the group of observers and those who practice teaching. A period of a few days is given to adjust the new students to the habits and routine of the teaching profession. All of the regular instruction is divided up between the different students and a complete schedule is made so to insure equal teaching practice.

The William Picken Journal was issued the first semester. New changes were made in the "Journalist." More stories of the feature and news types have been used and the front of the paper resembles that of a real newspaper.

New ideas have been introduced into the school. A psychological survey has been tried to determine the advancement of the pupil in each subject. William Picken is especially fortunate in securing Alex Francis again for their basket-ball coach. Two of their letter men were back and games were scheduled with Bunkerhill, Bison, Schoenchen, Stockton, LaCrosse, and Ellis.

This year a library for Picken school alone has been established. The books are taken from the College Library and Dr. F. B. Streeter has assisted in getting the library completely organized.

In connection with the training school there is conducted a Girl Reserve Training course. Each year, Miss Florence Stone of Wichita gives the tests which enable the future teachers to sponsor Girl Reserves in high school.

Our courses in training school have been improved greatly and William Picken is the center of and the fortress which produces the greatest and finest of teachers that Western Kansas is fortunate enough to secure.

ENTERTAINING NEIGHBORING STATES

By LOUISE BAIRD

A study in appreciation of that everyday event—a dust storm.

VERY serious complaints have been made by students of the Fort Hays Kansas State College. They hate the dust sticking in their throats and hanging in their hair and eyebrows. Their most serious complaint, however, is that it is not altogether Kansas dust they find in their food, in their beds and in their bathtubs, but visiting dust from neighboring states. They even go so far as to say that they have entertained as many as three different states in one day. Oklahoma in the morning, Colorado at noon, and Nebraska at night.

One student made his complaint in a mournful tone. He did not consider it a favor to eat Dakota in his soup or to dine on goulash flavored by a bit of old Wyoming. In fact, he considered it simply awful to find Kansas in his tea, Nebraska in his waffles, and Colorado in his slaw—and no joking matter to have a toplayer of Arkansas in every cup of coffee.

Yet another made his complaint, the while holding a string of sad-looking carp that he had apparently just finished pulling from Big Creek. This misguided youth was bemoaning the fact one could not even go outside for a breath of fresh air because the air was so filled with dust from the neighboring states. He little realized how much more fortunate he was than the poor fish he had just caught, for the carp, too, had just stuck their noses out for a breath of fresh air when suddenly they were scooped up and hurried home to serve as the main course of a dinner, to be served up with Nebraska flavoring.

Somehow these students do not realize the many advantages of this weather that causes states to go calling. Now one need not spend his hard-earned dollars to drive hundreds of miles just for the purpose of seeing his neighboring state. These states of the wide-open spaces and their much-vaunted scenic wonders can be entertained right on the campus with much less expense.

If the visitor is of a reddish hue the host and hostess will know that Oklahoma has come to call on them. Suppose the guest's favorite color is black; why then, the guest may well be from Nebraska or Dakota. If he is attired in bright yellow, then Texas is the guest. A drab gray characterizes the native of Kansas when he gets up dust enough to go traveling. The wise student would look for these distinguishing colors and dress accordingly.

Such a welcome is not afforded the visitors on Fort Hays campus. When the word goes out that another dust storm has arrived, an army of workers with their trusty dust-mops, dust-cloths, brooms and pails flock to their appointed places. They simply have no regard for the feelings of the states but attack them fiercely until the guests are made to feel that they are not welcome. It is said that some even go to the extent of sealing their windows and barring their doors in an attempt to keep away unwelcome callers.

A movement has been started for the organization of a new course in Dust Appreciation. This course would show the advantages of visiting states and would state the proper etiquette for their reception and entertainment. Through such a course the proper attitudes and appreciations should be developed. Such dust stories as these would be studied and appreciated.

There was a man at Sharon Springs who was hit by three drops of rain and knocked unconscious. It took three buckets of dust to revive him.

A farmer saw a hat lying by the roadside but on picking it up he found a head underneath it. The fellow refused the farmer's offer of a ride because he said he was on his horse.

PLEASE TAKE ALTERNATE SEATS!

That dread cry that always heralds another period of torture for the innocent student.

By FLOYD CONRY

IN UNIVERSITIES and colleges all over the country tests are given, at repeated intervals, to a vast army of students. Tests! From whence did they come?—Out of nowhere into here. Why? Only God, the merciful, knows. That they are here, however, is an established fact which most school-going youths would be willing to forget. The word "test" looks harmless enough, but the theory put into practice deals destruction to the school life of many students who do not have the stamina for study, or a retentive memory. For the average pupil tests are a cruel form of grilling and cross-examination by the "powers that be" upon the pupil.

The varieties of examinations are as abundant as the number of pedagogues (teachers to you), for each master teaching mind has, during the course of securing his own education, propounded individual "pet" theories on the subject of tests, and formed personal methods of prying into reluctant minds of quaking students to see how much knowledge has been absorbed in each particular subject on the curriculum. Few students favor the test idea, and most teachers as well, are secretly "soured" on the practice or habit. Yet tests are a traditional thing in the life of each student from the grade school days to his present scholastic achievement. Tests are the ghosts that have haunted one and all.

One of the most frequently used methods of examining on the Hays College campus is the shotgun quiz, given without warning to startle the lazy, sleepy-headed pupil out of his state of lethargy into a fact consciousness. For the student who has the ability to keep up his daily assignments the spur-of-the-moment test is simple, but to the person for whom the art of studying is sheer drudgery, any sort of examination is a horror, and the shotgun quiz is no exception.

Most universities use the objective test more than any other. This includes matching tests, true and false, and completion tests. In this kind each one has a fifty-fifty chance, for if he does not know the answer he can guess and have a chance of being correct.

FALL SEMESTER HONOR LIST OUT

Fifty-four Students Earn
4.5 Average or Better;
Four Make "A"
Average

Fifty-four students were included in the list announced by dea F.B. Lee as the honor roll for the fall semester. In order to get on the Honor Roll, a student must have a grade point average of 4.5 or above. The list includes only students who are enrolled in 12 hours or more of work. A 4.5 average shows that the students has earned an equal number of A's and B's.

The students having a straight A average are Donald Gamet, Jack Lecuyer, Arnold McGrath, and Omer Voss.

PI KAPS HIGH IN SCHOLARSHIP

Thetas in Second Place and Might Have Won It Permanently

Pi Kappa Sigma, with an index of 3.82, was announced winner of the sorority scholarship shield for the fall semester of 1934. This shield is awarded to the sorority with the highest scholastic index each semester and the sorority that obtains it three

*Classes, tests, and then grades—the vicious cycle for the student. to get acquainted side bulletin board and for the next few days this spot is the most popular one on the campus. At the nine weeks and semester the grades are sent home so the fond parents can judge of the efforts of their aspiring and perspiring offspring.

Then there is the test which is read orally and can be answered in one or two words. This is used to cover a lot of work in a short time, but the teacher who wishes to thoroughly cover the material in the text, uses still another form of test—the essay test. In this, a question is given and the student can write all he knows on the subject, so the one being quizzed has a much better chance of displaying his knowledge.

Some professors who want each pupil to do his own thinking, rule that his students move the chairs far apart or take every other seat so that no one will be tempted to cheat. Others put questions on the boards and number the rows of chairs; even rows take the even-numbered questions and odd rows answer the odd-numbered ones. The professors give their tests because they are required to pay scant attention to whether the student uses his own brain or his neighbor's. Numerous teachers present tests in mimeographed form with a key for rapid grading.

Any test is presented to a variety of individuals. There are persons who inspect the test, start writing immediately and continue to work diligently until they are finished. Then there is the one who sits and stares at the walls in the futile hope that an idea will soon materialize. In any school there is the individual, known as the "moocher," who depends largely upon his neighbor to help him through the ordeal. The "cribber" is the fellow that has brought convenient "helpers" to class to be used at every opportunity. In any classroom can be found the "beaker"—loved by all classmates—the "I know, teacher" specimen.

But no matter what the test or what the type of individual that takes it—it all comes out in the "wash"—better known as "grades." Anxious students gather forbodingly around the Dean's office to receive the verdict on eighteen weeks of labor. Student faces show every possible reaction—happiness, sorrow, disgust, anger. Some take it chin up. Others mope and pass the buck. Whether winning or losing, each student has adopted a favorite method of forgetting his troubles. To relax is the important thing, and serenity reigns on the campus for a few days before enrollment and the beginning of a new semester.

SCULPTOR OF MEN

How cherished is a teacher's lot
Whose guiding help is wrought
Upon an age of living youth,
Their lives before him brought
To find and fashion truth.

To a thousand hands he says, "Do this."
To a thousand minds, "Think, so."
And though he may but stir the germs
He leads an earnest youth to go
To newer thought, by those few terms.

The thoughts of youth he helps compile
In fervent truth and trust
That they will make the picture live
Because it's right and just—
To this his life he'll give!

—W. BRUCE MALCOLM

MAN's age-old instincts for food, clothing, and shelter are satisfied in an abundance of ways by students on the Fort Hays State Campus who have devised various and sundry methods of bringing in the ever-necessary cash which it takes to pay for an education.

All the common methods of earning money are employed, and many which would bring a nod of amazement from even the most conservative of the older generation who are so often wont to retell astonishing stories of the hardships they encountered to attend school when they were young.

The C. S. E. P. relief payroll has made it possible for a large number of students to work at either part or full-time employment and has taken a large burden from the school itself in providing a payroll for the hundreds of applicants for work. The College maintains a budget for student-assistant labor which takes care of every type of employment from the intellectual paper-grader and the trained stenographer to the energetic ditch-digger.

For the student who has a small income which he must budget to cover an entire four years in college, the co-operative method of boarding has been used to cut down expenses. Comfortable apartments have been furnished in private homes, cooking facilities have been installed in dormitories, and students everywhere are joining finances in a light house-keeping arrangement which has done much to make the cost of attending school at Fort Hays the lowest of any of the state institutions.

If anyone yelled, "Come and get it," to this bunch he'd take his life in his hands. We were a little late in getting this picture; even the beans are eaten.

SO'S WE

With this co-operative plan has developed the policy of bringing food from home and cans upon cans of Western Kansas home-canned beef and chicken have found their way into students' kitchenettes. Many who live near enough to their homes depend upon the home folks for a large part of their food supply and go home week-ends to return on Sunday night with fresh eggs, home-baked bread, vegetables, and meat.

Many students have begun looking for employment early to secure the ever-present places to work for room and board and find their duties consisting mainly of cooking, washing dishes, housekeeping, and possibly playing nursemaid to the young hopefuls of the household. Both men and women have found jobs waiting tables, washing dishes, and doing janitor work.

It remained for some of the more ingenious to devise schemes to fill the gap after all the Students who work in drug stores and cafes have the added advantage of the ever-present food and the "So's We Can Eat" becomes only a monotonous routine. Faculty members are solicited by earnest students who urge the patronage of certain filling stations, garages, cleaning establishments and the like.

One form of employment which annually uses several men from the college work list is as interesting as any of the forms of occupation. The night watchman brigade nightly patrols the campus boundaries and, armed with powerful flashlights, search diligently for evening strollers for whom the dark comfort of the rock garden benches has beckoned. To be a night watchman means that one must be able to lose sleep regularly and like it, and also hold no fear of the dark spookiness of the tree-covered campus. During the spring and summer seasons, the business of the night watchman becomes more rushing as more and more frequently their powerful lights and terse, "Sorry, folks, but you'll have to move on" disappoint late loiterers.

The idea of working one's way through school no longer holds the old suggestion of social inferiority. It is still an accomplishment which deserves praise. The possibility of continuing the extensive employment program begun by the school this year has brought encouragement to the hearts of many aspiring college students. The Federal Aid along this line has done much toward building a profitable work program.

And so they work—carrying laundry, delivering papers, raking the campus, and pounding typewriters—from day to day—outdoors and in—working either their brain or their brawn according to its degree of efficiency—all so's we can eat!

CAN EAT

ordinary jobs were taken. Some of the more brilliant have found positions as private tutors, either to flunking freshmen or to younger pupils whose parents feel that their children need assistance outside the regular school-room activity. A few musically talented students have organized music classes which provide one of the most satisfactory sources of revenue. Journalism students have profited from free-lance feature writing or affiliation with the school's publicity department. One dramatically inclined young woman goes home on alternate week-ends to conduct a class in expression. A philosophy student preaches regularly at his small charge.

For the athletic young man who has had practical experience, officiating at football and basket ball games in nearby towns pays well. Other young men work on the school payroll at keeping up the campus. Several are employed in the College Greenhouse and have formed a clique of their own which is generally recognized over the campus as the "Greenhouse Gang."

REMEMBER THE FUSIONIST PARTY

by WALTER PARK

LAST spring the real red-blooded politicians on the campus mopped the cobwebs from the "soap boxes," and shouted long and loudly for their favorite candidates in the spring election. Some of the modern campaign leaders used handbills and newspaper ads, and it was even rumored that some of the side issues were settled by the old "cave man" method.

To the victor belongs the spoils—after the storm had settled and all votes were counted, the victors were Helen Dannefer, James Wickizer, and Walter Park, elected at large; Keith Forney and Kirk Raynesford, from the senior class; Herman Schwartzkopf and Walter Dunlap, from the junior class; and Alan Rankin and Gene Holm, from the sophomore class.

The fall election completed the membership of the council; this added Elizabeth Eppstein from the senior class, Maurice Waeldin from the junior class, Boyd McCandless from the sophomore class, and Richard White, Colvin Kindschi, and Ray Thurlow from the freshman class.

Fort Hays Kansas State College has one of the oldest student governments in America; it was organized in 1911 and the first election was held that spring. The present constitution has been amended several times since the original was drawn up, and was brought up-to-date this spring by Dean F. B. Lee, who is sponsor of the Student Council.

The Council sponsored a Championship Day celebration last November when the Tiger football team won the Central Conference Crown. The day's program was made up of a big pep rally held in the Coliseum in the morning; then in the afternoon, a parade from the campus down town and to the picture show. That evening another pep rally was held with a huge bonfire, then a free varsity at the Woman's Building.

Another big day on the students' calendar in the spring, was Pike Day. This day was sponsored by the Student Council. A picnic dinner was held at Fort Hays Frontier Park, followed by baseball games and a picture show. A varsity provided the entertainment for the evening.

Among other duties of the Student Council are the sponsoring of all school elections, making rooming house rules, and helping in providing entertainment for the students.

IT'S ALL IN A SEASON!

● by BOYD McCANDLESS

IT'S ALL in the way you look at it, debate is. It can lick you, get you clear down, hurt you, thwart you. But if you let it, it can really build you up. That last is what it has done for Fort Hays State this year; it's built up the old members of the teams—June Rader, Walter Park, Adrian Dawson, and Boyd McCandless so that they're a little more sure of themselves. For the new members, Florence Tichenor, Jane Flood, Marguerite Taylor, John Wilcoxon, Keith Sebelius, and Horace Butler, it's done lots too. It's taught them things about rattling on when they're scared stiff; reasoning on their feet down to a conclusion that hits the judge right between the eyes from bits of information scattered through half a hundred books they've read before, and from facts presented in their own favor by the opposing side.

There's a lot behind a ten-minute debate speech—as much hard work and as many headaches as there are weary muscles and dull routine behind a ten-minute tap dance. Those poor people who go out for the debate squad in the fall, pre-laws many of them, prospective teachers, lecturers, farmers, they take a lot on themselves when they enroll in debate and oratory. It probably, during the two semesters, mounts up to a couple of three hours (and stiff three hours, too) courses. There are volumes of material to dig through—all of it carefully censored by the powers that be so that it contains not one interesting item; there are notes to be made on it all; organization to be done, a half dozen speeches in the duration of a season to be written and scrapped; speeches to be made while stage fright rattles the old knees—all of it plenty hard work.

The four 1935 teams averaged up for fifth place at the Hutchinson tournament in the winter and later participated in several meets and dual matches. What is more, every one, from Professor Start, the revered sponsor, down to Jane Flood, the baby of the crowd, had fun. Everybody says, "A nice season."

Fort Hays State College was represented at the state province meet held in Winfield in April under the auspices of the Pi Kappa Delta, by two debate teams and Boyd McCandless, extemporaneous speaker who tied for third place in the meet. The women's team, composed of Marguerite Taylor and Faye Garten went to the semi-finals in the debate tournament, tying with Bethel for third place.

Below—The varsity debate squad, composed of ten people, with a few clippings to show some of their activities.

and now in this, the 1935 "Reveille," you see the whole school year again.

by LOUISE BAIRD

At the head of this year's "Leader" are Helen Dannefer, editor; and Walter Park, business manager, ably assisted by a staff of 41, whose duties range from writing copy to addressing papers.

The "Reveille" is the college yearbook, an annual publication of the junior class. It exemplifies the character of the student body and reflects the atmosphere of the school as it is day by day. It is because of this exemplification and the scribbled memories in the book that the "Reveille" becomes the student's most prized possession.

The staff for the present issue of the "Reveille" is composed of seven people, headed by Clara Nicholas, editor; and Walter Park, business manager.

Intense quiet prevails during the reading of the "Aerend," a literary magazine published quarterly and composed of prose and poetry written by anyone who cares to contribute. The "Aerend" is edited by Dr. R. R. Macgregor, head of the English Department.

An article on publications would be incomplete without the mention of the college printshop, where the "Leader" and "Aerend" are published. Walter Wallerstedt is the college printer.

The Aerend, in magazine form, has grown steadily until it is now one of the best literary accomplishments of its kind in the state of Kansas. Dr. R. R. Macgregor, editor, has contributed a very interesting and worthwhile article, "Liberalizing the Teacher's Movement," for a more liberal education and suggests a movement of the American teacher, with the liberalized curriculum. Increased enrollment in the total number of the state will be privileged at this meeting to hear such nationally known speakers as Dr. Wise, Rabbi of the Jewish Temple, George of Colorado, the president of the Kansas State Teachers' Association ever to be held in this section of the state, is scheduled for this year at Hays on Nov. 1, 2, and 3. This is the seventy-first annual session.

The cast of the play "Sun Up", directed by Orvis Grout, will make a two day trip Feb. 5 and 6. The play will be presented at Goodland on Feb. 5 and in Oakley on Feb. 6. The play will be presented tomorrow evening, Feb. 1, in Picken Hall at eight o'clock. The cast of characters is as follows: Katherine Reed, Helen Hygdon, Harold Graves, Glenn Durbin, Joe Moss, Lloyd Gax, Silences, Widow Cagle, Emmy Todd, Rufe, Sheriff, Preacher, Pap Todd, Bud Todd, George of Colorado, the president of the Kansas State Teachers' Association.

THE BIG DAY OF

By EILEEN SHAW

To the thoughtless undergraduate, Home-or not he gets a vacation, but to the old

"SHOULD auld acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to mind!"

With the rain, which threatened to repeat its annual custom of spoiling the celebration, disappearing under the warmth of a glorious autumn day, the 1934 Homecoming developed into one of the liveliest and most successful in several years.

On November 3, the last day of the State Teachers' meeting in Hays, old grads flocked into town to join those who had come early to attend the educational functions, and hand-shaking reigned supreme.

The teachers' meeting, which opened on Thursday, Nov. 1, with the music department's presentation of the opera "Faust," drew a record crowd and most of the graduates of Fort Hays State who are teaching in Kansas came early to make a profitable as well as entertaining week-end of it. The local choruses were assisted in the opera by the presence of a guest soloist, Walter Cranston, Chicago, who sang the title role and added much to the opera's presentation.

The Homecoming program itself opened with a parade sponsored by the Pep Club and featuring three bands and representations from all campus organizations.

The football game with St. Benedict's was the feature of the afternoon's program and a record alumni crowd overran the stadium. Glory in the lovely weather and the intoxicating Homecoming spirit was partially dimmed by the fact that the Tigers, who displayed such remarkable offensive power throughout the season, played the most listless game of the 1934 season and were held to a 6-6 tie by the much-publicized Ravens.

THE YEAR

coming usually means only worry as to whether grad, Homecoming means something else again.

The game was broadcast over radio station KFBI at Abilene and the labyrinth of wires made it impossible to exhibit to the alumni one of the newest and most progressive additions to our athletic programs, a loud-speaking system to broadcast the play by play account of the game to the fans in the stand and to clear up for them any doubts they may have regarding mixed-up plays.

Various organization dinners attracted the Greek alumni in the evening, and later a stunt program with contributions by Camp Lewis and each of the fraternities and sororities was presented in the Coliseum.

The "K" Club, men's athletic organization.

Pi Epsilon Pi, newly organized from the Pep Club.

The varsity at night was attended by a record crowd and, while grads gathered in corners to reminisce, students and visitors tripped the light fantastic until a warning signal by Dean Agnew brought forth the disappointing strains of "Home, Sweet Home." The clock struck twelve as the last straggler crossed the campus and another Homecoming passed into history.

GO! YOU HAYS TIGERS!

by SCOTTY PHILIP

FOOTBALL, basket ball, and track—all are being received with new enthusiasm by the Tiger fans because of the work of our three coaches, each a head coach in a different major sport. Jack Riley in football, "Busch" Gross in basket ball, and Jim Yeager in track. The high standings of the teams in these three sports have given the boosters something to be proud of in their desire to have victorious teams.

Both Riley and Gross are Fort Hays State alumni, having played on the same conference-winning Tiger football team in 1921. Yeager came here from Kansas State College at Manhattan, where he was a star tackle.

The introduction of intramural sports, under Yeager's supervision, for fraternity and independent teams has done much to further general interest in sports.

For the first time since becoming a member of the Central Intercollegiate Conference, Fort Hays State won a loop championship, bringing home the 1934 football cup after one of the most successful seasons a Tiger team has ever enjoyed.

This year's basket ball and track teams have furnished keen conference competition. Without doubt, athletics at Fort Hays State are looking up.

Sports—a new field of amusement at the college—have, because of the spirit shown by the fighting Tigers, drawn students and fans alike to attend all athletic events.

WE INTRODUCE THE FIRST TIGER C. I. C. CHAMPIONS

The 1934 Central Intercollegiate Conference football champions have brought to Fort Hays Kansas State College a coveted honor that had not rested here since the College's entrance into C. I. C. competition.

Meet the Central Conference football champions for 1934—

First of all, "Cocky" Sexton, the brilliant triple-threat co-captain, is the outstanding back in the state of Kansas and was twice chosen all-conference quarterback and given All-American honorable mention. Sexton, whose outstanding three-year record of play is now ended, is a rabbit back known by coaches and officials everywhere as one of the most likeable men in Kansas football.

Sylvester Palmer, another Tiger all-conference representative, is a junior, considered by many to be one of the best "spin" men and ball carriers in the state. Palmer's consistent line smashing earned for him the title of "Plunging Palmer."

Dennis McKee, all-conference guard, has been a big aid in running interference for Palmer and Sexton. A severe attack of pneumonia last spring has not hurt his speed in defensive play. Ward Shull has completed his fourth season in Tiger competition, where he has earned four letters. Injuries kept Shull out of competition during the '33 season, for which he had been chosen co-captain.

Rennie Zeigler, 220-pound tackle, co-captained the 1934 Tiger champions. He has finished his four years of competition for the College, playing what has been probably the most consistent ball of any man on the team. Wade Zeigler is the guard who caught the pass behind the Tiger goal line for a touchdown against the Washburn Ichabods.

Eugene Niewald, sophomore, is one of the hardest-hitting backs on the squad. Florian Holm is the only man from the Tiger group who can play any position in the backfield with equal efficiency.

Alex Francis, place kicker de luxe, is now finishing his eighth year of football under Coach Riley. Francis has scored in nine of the twelve games he has played in College. He was named as student assistant to Riley this year and has done much toward developing the victorious freshman group.

"Red" Huffman, sophomore, played substitute guard position in '33 and was shifted from there to regular center this year. He is an exceptionally strong defensive pivot man. George Gruver rated second all-conference end and is one of the best defensive men on the Hays line-up. "Shim" Dreiling received the center position on the second all-conference group this season. Dreiling weighs 190 pounds but is one of the fastest men in the line to lend interference.

Bill Reissig earned his first letter last year as an understudy for Captain Bill Bearley. Reissig is one of the youngest men on the squad, but is an outstanding line-backer who can be depended upon to furnish the necessary punch in a pinch.

Ed Berder, 200-pound tackle, is believed by Riley to be the greatest running tackle in the state. He is not only big but also fast.

Norval Neve, senior quarterback, is an outstanding punter who has been kept from much competition by a knee injury.

Dean Skaer, one of the lightest men on the starting eleven, makes up for his lack of weight in head work and fight. He is also captain of the basket ball team. Woody Reinhold played his third year at end position for the Tigers. He is a strong defensive man and furnished much of the wit for the team.

Freshmen in the Tiger camp include several outstanding prospects: Herb Bender, fullback; Eugene Allen, quarterback; Harold Rotrock, center; Red Lewis, guard; Rudolph Skubal, tackle; and Alvin Staab, quarterback. Dale Shellhaus and Norval Neve, both ends, played their first year with the Tigers this season.

Of the coaching of the championship team, Riley said, "The work and effort necessary for the development of our championship team this year has been divided among all of those who make up the coaching staff. Jim Yeager, line coach, and "Busch" Gross, backfield coach, have done all in their power to make the season a success." Riley added further that Francis and Gibb had a highly creditable record with both the varsity and freshman groups. The success of the freshman team under their tutorage has developed material that can be used during next year's season.

The gradual perfection of the football team in the last four years has so increased the crowd of fans that it was with difficulty that they were handled last fall. This is being overcome by moving the field from its old position south and west of the Coliseum to a new one in front of the old Golden Belt Fair grandstand. This structure is roofed and will seat two thousand people.

ALLEN, E. BENDER, H. BENDER, DREILING, FRANCIS,
GRUVER, HOLM, HUFFMAN, LEWIS, MCKEE,
MCLANE, NEVE, NIEWALD, PALMER

The season's record is certainly an outstanding one. The Tigers opened 1934 competition by losing to the Kansas Aggies 13-0 at Manhattan. The opening conference victory over Emporia Teachers was the first victory the Tigers had ever earned from the Teachers on the Hornets' home field. This was followed by a 16-9 victory over the Nebraska State Teachers from Chadron, Nebr. This game was played at Chadron and furnished a lengthy trip to a country new to most of the members of the team.

When the Tigers came back into conference competition, they played one of the most thrilling and important games of the season, defeating the 1933 champion Wichita University Wheatshockers 12-7 before a large and enthusiastic Western Kansas crowd.

After winning this tough grind, the defeat by Pittsburg put the Teachers in first place in the C. I. C.; but subsequently Pittsburg lost another conference game and the Tigers came through with two final victories in the conference, taking a 23-13 home victory over the Washburn Ichabods, and a 20-6 final win from Southeastern at Winfield.

Non-conference games brought a 6-6 tie with St. Benedict's College of Atchison, played before the Homecoming crowd, and a 41-0 closing season win from the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes. The final game at Salina was played on Thanksgiving Day in a drizzling rain. The victory was especially satisfactory to the Tigers, revenging in part a 21-0 victory the Coyotes took on Thanksgiving, 1933, spoiling what was then one of the best records the Tigers had ever laid down.

To say that 1934 brought a successful season would be putting it mildly. To Tiger fans, it was a season of joyful enthusiasm, bringing to Fort Hays State the first Central Intercollegiate Conference championship.

The Fort Hays bucket boys had more than their share of hard luck this year, what with "Busch" being in the hospital

THE Tigers started the 1935 basket ball season with only five lettermen, captain-elect Dean Skaer, Herman Schwartzkopf, James Wickizer, Rich Staab, and "Cocky" Sexton. Only Staab and Schwartzkopf were regulars from last year, but Coach Gross went to work with the 100 candidates who had answered the initial call.

Then on the eve of the opening of the C. I. C. race, just as the boys were about ready to entrain for Emporia to open the conference season against the titleholders, Lady Luck took a lam at the Tigers.

Coach Gross was stricken and taken to the hospital where he was placed in a case which he wore the remainder of the season. The Tigers pulled out for Emporia with Coach Jack Riley, head football mentor, handling the squad in Gross' absence. At Emporia the Tigers suffered their only bad defeat of the season when the Hornets defeated the black and gold boys 50 to 34. The following night at Pittsburg the Tigers took another one on the chin, losing by only four points, Pitt winning 25 to 21.

The team gave Wichita a setback to the tune of 39 to 35 to win their first conference game and go into a tie for third place above the Emporia Teachers, whose lone win over Hays had been their only effort in the win column.

Before one of the largest and most enthusiastic crowds of the season the Tigers lost to the Emporia Teachers, 38 to 37, in one of the most heart-breaking games of the year. The game, which had been close and hard-fought throughout, was decided by a free shot scored after the game had ended. The time-keeper's gun failed to fire and before the time-keeper could make the referee hear (so great was the roar of the crowd), one of the Hays boys had fouled an Emporia player; the referee had to

for most of the season, and the boys being unable to get rid of the jinx of losing games by one point, but, nevertheless, they gave their opponents a hard battle every time.

The season was brought to a thrilling and dramatic close on the home court when the Southwestern Moundbuilders earned a tie for the title by edging out a 33 to 31 victory. During the season the Tigers scored 245 points to their opponents 262, or just 17 less points in eight games—16 of which were in the opening game of the season. Pittsburg and Southwestern who tied for the championship each lost three games, so it is easy to see what an extra basket or two in some of those close games might have meant.

Wickizer, senior, gained a position on the official all-conference pick as one of the two leading guards in the conference. Herman Schwartzkopf is captain-elect for next year's squad. Rick Staab was named for the second straight year as center of the second all-conference team.

allow an Emporia free shot which was sunk, winning the game for Emporia much to the woe of the excited crowd packed in the Coliseum.

Although out of the running for the C. I. C. flag the Tigers messed up the hopes of Pittsburg for a clean title when they downed the Gorillas here 36 to 31.

With a win over the league leaders the Tigers embarked for Salina to play a return game with Kansas Wesleyan, easily handled earlier in the season. But once more the Coyote fang of Wesleyan left a big tear in the Tiger fur and the five-year Tiger winning streak of 33 non-conference games was brought suddenly to a halt.

MARK—SET—GO!—and another track season opens at Hays. Track meets, under the supervision of Jim Yeager, track coach, are getting more popular all the time with Tiger fans.

TRACK activities at Fort Hays State opened on April 5 with a dual meet with the Kearney, Nebraska, State Teachers' College. Hays won the meet by an impressive 103-33 score, sweeping four events, the 440-yard dash, the 330-yard run, the low hurdles and the broad jump.

More widespread interest was aroused, however, with the somewhat dusty running of the third annual Fort Hays Relays, an elimination meet for high schools in Western Kansas in which more than three hundred athletes were entered, and several new records were set.

The same-week-end, the Tigers placed second in the annual Hastings Relays, held at Hastings, Nebraska. Other meets held later in the season included a dual meet with Hastings College at Hays, participation in the Kansas Relays at Lawrence, a triangular meet with Wichita University, Southwestern and Fort Hays, and the annual Central Conference meet at Pittsburg on May 11.

In a pre-season indoor meet at Kansas City, two Tiger stars, Arthur Austin and Norval Curry placed in the annual K. C. A. C. meet, Austin tying for first place in the high jump and Curry winning a tie for third position in the pole vault. This is the first season that Fort Hays State has been represented at the Kansas City meet and the good showing made by the two field men was a decided note of encouragement to college athletics.

Point winners for the Tigers during the 1935 spring season included: Zamrzla, distance runs; Duncan, distance runs; Schwartzkopf, dashes and relay; Richardson, dashes and relay; Alvin Staab, dashes and javelin; Florian Holm, dashes; Michael, distance runs; Herman, distance runs; Mog, distance runs; Austin, high jump and relay; Newberry, relay; Curry, pole vault and high jump; Burford, high jump; Dunlap, high jump; Floyd Stephens, broad jump; L. Pfortmiller, shot-put; Shull, shot-put and discus.

New school records were set this season by Austin, Stephens and Zamrzla.

Jim Yeager has complete charge of all Tiger track activities.

Fort Hays had a number of very good track prospects, but due to injuries, etc., some of the men were unable to participate in any meets. Nevertheless, Hays may well be proud of the records set both here and at other schools. Austin, Stephens, and Zamrzla bettered the school records, while many others at least equalled them.

With the new widespread interest in intramurals, more students are taking part in the inter-fraternal and inter-class athletic contests than ever before.

The intramural sports include speedball, basket ball, horseshoe, volley ball, baseball, and tennis. As the Reveille goes to press, the last two sports have not been finished for the year and so the winner of the prized intramural cup cannot be announced for this year in the 1935 yearbook. The Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity won the cup last year and has been fighting hard to defend it this season.

Five organizations and three independent teams took part in the contests. The fraternities are Phi Sigma Epsilon, Kappa Beta Tau, Sigma Tau Gamma, and Phi Mu Alpha. The non-fraternal organizations include the Y. M. C. A., and three independent teams, two of which are the Camp Lewis Tigers and the Camp Lewis Cardinals. During the speedball season, Camp Lewis had three teams competing and during basket ball season there were eleven teams, including the organization teams, competing for the championship.

The tennis courts are in unusually fine shape this year and so there are a great many teams reported for tennis intramurals, sixty-four doubles and one hundred and thirty singles. Baseball has eight teams ready, all of them working hard to pile up points for the trophy.

With only a slight difference in points, the teams are still keeping an eye on the cup. The winners of the sports so far are as follows: Speedball, Camp Lewis Cardinals; basket ball, Camp Lewis Tigers; horseshoe, singles, Voss, doubles, Voss and Wagner; volley ball, Phi Sigma Epsilon; and baseball and tennis will tell the story.

Jim Yeager is in complete charge of the intramural program and has done much to build intramural activities into a student-wide project.

The William Picken basket ball team, coached by Alex Francis, had an unusually successful season, winning twice as many games as they lost, and going to the second round of both the elimination and the regional tournaments.

AND NOW THE LADIES

by LAVINA ROW

As I am a Physical Education major, I was interested in visiting the various organizations in the Fort Hays State Women's Physical Education Department. I called at the Women's Physical Education office and talked to the instructors, Miss Barbour and Miss Millett. We discussed the physical education program and activities. There are four semester credits of physical education required of each girl besides the various activities that she desires to take. Physical Education clubs are carried on to further the interest of the girls. Miss Barbour told me that there would be two such club meetings that afternoon.

Duck Club was my first stop. It meets every Monday afternoon at four o'clock. Duck Club is a swimming organization as the title signifies, and the membership is composed of those girls who passed certain swimming tests, such as back stroke, side stroke, tread, crawl, diving and back and face float. The girls are ducklings for one semester, and then when further tests have been perfected they become full-fledged Ducks.

The girls were practicing on stunts and games for the Spring Water Festival. The festival is in the form of a water kingdom with king, queen and all the attendants.

Duck Club has charge of the swimming and water games of the high school Play Day sponsored by the W. A. A.

In the fall Duck Club gave a party for girls who were interested in swimming. During the winter months the girls practice strokes, diving and stunts. The girls were having a grand time as Duck Club is an hour in which to really enjoy swimming.

At five o'clock I visited the bi-monthly meeting of the Women's Athletic Association, an organization of women students who are interested in various athletic activities. The usual routine business was transacted and then plans were made for the high school Play Day. It had been planned to be held on April 6, but due to the dust storms it had been necessary to change the date until April 27. Nevertheless, plans were going ahead just the same. The Play Day was planned in the form of a "Round-up." Every part of the plans was to be carried out in truly Western style, so the girls were making "brands" to distinguish the teams throughout the day's activities.

The representatives from the high schools, usually eight girls, are divided on each team, so there is no competition between high schools. The idea of no competitive meets between high schools was presented by the American Federation of College Women. Various group games and individual sports, such as hit pin baseball, tennequoit, volley ball, swimming, and soccer are played during the day. One of the outstanding events of the day is the health and posture contest judged by college health officials.

Following the meeting I stayed to talk to the president of W. A. A., Miss Clara Nicholas. We discussed the activities carried on during the year. In the fall W. A. A. planned hikes and get-togethers to meet the new girls on the campus. They have other picnics and hikes for members during the year.

W. A. A. has had much success this year in sponsoring a social dancing class. The first semester the class was divided into beginners and advanced, but second semester they were combined. The class meets every Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock and the students may have a whole hour of fun for only a dime.

Another activity sponsored by W. A. A. is women's intramurals. The head of the intramurals is chosen from W. A. A. The teams are composed of social organizations and independent teams.

The president was especially enthused about the mid-west district convention that she had attended at Emporia during February. Hays sent four delegates and the Physical Education Instructor, Miss Millett. There were representatives from eight states at the convention, so there were W. A. A. ideas from Louisiana to Nebraska. The meetings were very instructive, as well as interesting, as the national secretary and other women who are authorities on women's sports were there.

Throughout the year W. A. A. members have been working for points that contribute to a "K" sweater. Different sports that give points are hiking, roller skating, basket ball, tennis, ice skating, swimming, volley ball and speedball. In the spring W. A. A. Council chooses a girl who has been outstanding in all phases of physical education and she is given the "K" award for all-around girl.

The W. A. A. program will be completed this year with the annual high school Play Day and the completion of the intramural schedule.

Tuesday morning I returned to the campus and visited the tapping and intermediate swimming classes. The tapping class was working on the New Boy Clog and the swimming class was beginning life-saving. At four o'clock in the afternoon I spent an hour with the Orchesis class.

Orchesis, a dancing organization, was practicing the dances for the opera "Aida." There were two dances, the first an Egyptian dance performed by eight girls with the truly Egyptian rhythm. The other dance was of the Moorish type and was very light and quick. The girls were working hard as it was less than a month until the opera.

Last fall the Orchesis presented the ballet in the opera "Faust." It was a lively dance at the fair. During the winter months, the girls practiced on dances and rhythmic movements. Several members of Orchesis presented dances in assemblies during the school year.

At five on Wednesday, I visited the swimming department again. Life Savers had just started practice for the spring tests. The tests will be given in May by Mr. A. T. McCue, from national headquarters at St. Louis.

The practice periods are divided into two divisions, Junior and Senior. The girls are especially practicing approaches, various holds and breaks, surface dives and endurance.

Senior Life Savers who are on the campus this year are: Helen Wheat, Clara Nicholas, Nora King, Reva Jewell, Ruth Schiller, Celeste Lowry, Erma Lowrey, and Henrietta Geibler.

As my visit was limited to three days, I left Fort Hays Kansas State Campus, knowing that athletics for women were not lacking and that the girls thoroughly enjoyed it all.

Showing the W. A. A. in action. The lower picture shows the entire group, while the smaller snapshots show hockey games and basket ball.

The highest award that can be earned in W. A. A. is a sweater, and we show here those who have earned sweaters that are now on the campus.

"TO FIND THEIR PLACE . . ."

The Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. are the organizations on this campus which aid the students "to find their place in God's plan."

by ELIZABETH BARTHOLOMEW

RELIGION on our campus? Up goes an eyebrow. Can there be anything religious to a modern college campus? The answer made by those who know is definitely "yes." At the head of this effort is the Young Women's Christian Association and the Young Men's Christian Association, which branch off into the Girl Reserve and the Hi-Y in the William Picken Training School.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are student movements and national organizations. They are for young people who are trying to live life at its finest and who want to realize this full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. Each Wednesday evening, from 7:00 to 8:00, these two organizations meet, usually in separate groups, to discuss problems of vital interest to them as future citizens of their state, nation, and world.

The leadership for these organizations comes from the cabinets and the faculty sponsors. Dr. Willis Walker is the Y. M. C. A. sponsor and Dr. C. F. Wiest is an honorary member. The president is Richard Liss and the other cabinet members are Gerald Opdycke, Ralph Eikelberger, Robert Jennison, George Nelson, Maurice Wilson, Maurice

Miss Maude Gorham serves as sponsor of the Y. W. C. A. The president, Elizabeth Bartholomew, chose as her cabinet officers Lorea Porter, Esther Lauderbaugh, Mabel Robertson, Vera Brown, Mildred King, Grace Andree, Mary Beesley, Isabel Dodrill, Almeda Taylor, and Blanche Cockcroft. The freshmen selected Mary Moore as their president the first semester and Margaret Bartholomew the second term. They were also members of the cabinet.

In co-operation with other campus organizations, the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association sponsor what is known as Religious Week, generally preceding Holy Week. Dr. H. D. Bollinger, assistant secretary of the Wesley Foundation of the Methodist Church, led the National Religious Week program on the campus this spring, April 8, 9, and 10.

Assemblies were held every morning at 9:30 during the three-day schedule, for the student body as a whole; group meetings took place every afternoon at 4:00; services were held every evening at 7:30 in the Picken Auditorium; and a special assembly was called every afternoon at 4:40 for personal interview and general student discussions.

Doctor Bollinger's addresses were planned in a series, dealing almost entirely with the problems confronting American students, and methods of solving them. All other college extra-curricular activities were suspended during Religious Week. The complete program follows:

The Girl Reserve Club was established in the William Picken School and affiliated with the State Club in the fall semester of 1931. It has continued since then as a project of the college Y. W. C. A. This Club has the distinction of being the first Girl Reserve Club established in a training school in Kansas.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. carry on many activities and reach many people in a school year. They are the organizations where those who wish to study the problems of vital concern to wide-awake modern youth may find stimulation and encouragement. They endeavor to aid college people in determining their philosophy of life and in finding their own special place in God's plan for this world.

"EXTRA-CURRICULAR ORGANIZATIONS!"

by ELAINE BITTER

CLUBS, CLUBS, CLUBS! Did you ever stop to think what college would be like without clubs? Not the clubs like the cave man used to capture his wives, or the clubs used by the policemen, or the clubs used in the rabbit drives of the year, but organizations such as the Women's Glee Club, Men's Glee Club, Professional Club, Pep Club, Parliamentary Law Club, "K" Club, Honorary Club, Engineers Club, Art Club, Home Economics Club and the English Club?

Those who are interested in art should be enrolled in the Art Club. The programs are built around serious studies in art appreciation. The Art Club sponsors art exhibits and encourages the appreciation of art.

Want a buy a duck? The Duck Club is an organization of girls with special swimming ability. From time to time, tests are taken to assure the qualification for membership. By passing the first test, a girl becomes a duckling, but is not a full-fledged duck until she has passed a second and more difficult test.

Orchesis is an activity for those majoring or minoring in physical education who have sufficient aesthetic and interpretive dancing to enable them to meet the requirements.

The outstanding feature of the Home Economics Club is their giving an annual Christmas party for all of the freshmen girls on the campus. This year the party was held at the Woman's Building which was beautifully decorated, and seemed to be full of Christmas spirit. The old English customs were carried out as far as possible, including the troubadours, jesters, fruit cake, and hot punch. Approximately sixty pounds of fruit cake were served at the party. Dr. Macgregor gave a very interesting talk on the old English customs, which added much to the atmosphere of the party. It really is one of the nicest parties given on the campus by any club throughout the year.

Pi Epsilon Pi is an organization of college men and women for the purpose of sponsoring cheering at athletic events. Members are usually students active in every effort to support the athletic teams of the college. The Pep Club has been exceptionally active in their work this year. Remember the good varsity they gave featuring Don Harper's orchestra?

Don't forget how dusty the Men's Glee Club got on their way to a concert at Wakeeney. And how the Women's Glee Club toppled over in the ditch.

Ever been to dancing class? The W. A. A. is responsible for those good times. The Women's Athletic Association is an organization of women students who are interested in various activities sponsored by the club, such as hiking, roller-skating, horseback riding, basket ball and speed ball. The points won in these sports contribute toward "K" letters and honor sweaters.

To unite in the desire to realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God, to determine to have a part in making this life possible for all people, and in this task to seek to understand Jesus and to follow Him is the threefold aim of the Young Women's Christian Association. The Y. W. C. A. is one of the most worth-while organizations on the campus. Membership is open to all those interested in living a better life.

The Young Men's Christian Association, a student movement of world-wide organization, endeavors to live life at its finest. Any young man is welcome to membership. The Y. M. C. A., in co-operation with the Y. W. C. A. sponsor the Religious Week program on our campus each year.

Are you interested in learning about engineering problems? The Engineers Club follows a main program pertaining to some particular engineering problem throughout the year. At each meeting the problem is brought up from a different angle. Remember the big "Engineer Ball?"

The professional and parliamentary law clubs are not to be forgotten either, for they do a very worth-while piece of work.

Looking back over the past year, do you believe that you have gotten as much out of your college life as you could have? An aim to belong to as many college organizations as possible is certainly a worth-while one.

ASSEMBLIES--

DEAR TO THE HEART OF THE STUDENT--

"WESTERN KANSAS' ALMA MATER . . . K. S. C. Fort Hays," sing 350 students and faculty members about half a tone flat, as Elizabeth Hibbs wrestles with the F. H. K. S. C. organ. No, F. H. K. S. C. doesn't mean %&' in western Kansas language, but Hibbs, organ, "Pop" Malloy, Alan Rankin, Dean Lee, announcements, do mean another student assembly.

These are all fleeting impressions of the year's student assemblies. About once a week, the student body is subjected to these affairs which really have been most entertaining, judging from student opinion. Speakers, singers, dancers, etc., appear frequently before the most severe of all critics, a group of students, to do or to die, and they do it!

Assisting Rankin, the student president, the first semester were Mark Brown and Helen Frances Bice, first and second vice-presidents respectively, and Emma Louise Havemann, secretary-treasurer. The second semester found few changes except that Bee Jacquart and Boyd McCandless replaced the former first and second vice-presidents in a particularly calm election.

The first assembly of the year was for the traditionally green freshmen who were placed under the wings of concerned faculty members and were crammed with facts about "budgeting the time," "extra-curricular activities," etc.

One night during Homecoming festivities, all the fraternity and sorority people tried to see which could make the biggest fool out of himself in a special student assembly. Bee Jacquart in a football suit and the Deltas actually washing their own clothes, to say nothing of Winnie Adams as the rollicking sports bride, and that S. A. I-Phi Mu opera. Nuf sed!

One of the most impressive assemblies of the year is the presentation of a Christmas pageant the last day of school before Christmas vacation. Many of the students take part in the pageant; the choir is made up of singers of the school, and any music is furnished by students.

BUT WHAT DOES THE FACULTY THINK?

The Little Theatre Players, under the supervision of Dr. R. R. Macgregor and the presidency of Orvis Grout, aided much in having interesting assemblies. Not only assisting in college assemblies, the Little Theatre group has taken plays to many Western Kansas towns where they were enthusiastically received by appreciative audiences. "Ile," "Sun-Up," and "Come Seven" were taken on the road after being presented on the campus.

The cast for "Ile" included Marvella Shridde, Glen Durboraw, Scotty Philip, John Kirkman, George Adams, and Clarence Leckron. The members of the "Sun-Up" cast were Helen Higdon, Kathryn Reed, Harold Graves, Joe Moss, Glen Durboraw, Donald Bybee, Lloyd Sidener, Gayle Stover, and Orvis Grout. The contributions of the Little Theatre were outstanding and big plans are being made for the future, including immediate association with a national dramatic fraternity.

A peace assembly, held this spring under the direction of a committee headed by Kenneth Davenport, aroused a large amount of interest among the student body. A lively discussion, presided over by Alan Rankin, finally resulted in the adopting of two resolutions opposing war and further expenditures for armaments. The assembly was a part of the nation-wide peace strike which student bodies everywhere observed on April 19. The Fort Hays State Convocation was a particularly conservative one which is believed to have brought about really educational effects.

Many and varied have been the student assemblies held this year—a seriously impressive one honoring the memory of the late President W. A. Lewis, a rollicking pep meeting celebrating the Central Conference Championship, plays by the Little Theatre and other groups, outstanding speakers and entertainers, and a few relaxing dancing and musical programs by campus talent.

"Are there any other announcements? If not, the meeting stands adjourned."

The String Trio: MRS. CLARA MALLOY, MISS LUCILLE FELTEN, and ALAN RANKIN

Soloists — KEITH FORNEY, CHRYSTABELLE BRYAN, HOLLIS BARNHOUSE, and MARTHA WRIGHT

LET'S ALL SING

by CHRYSTABELLE BRYAN

"AH-AH-AH-AH-ahpsqueak-squak-one-and-two-and-three-and-ee-oo-ah-aye." Did someone say we were in the music department? Right you are; even the bedlam of sounds heard on stepping onto the campus has an explanation—the stuffy practice rooms at the west end of the third floor corridor become too warm; the windows are opened wide, and over the campus may be heard the music student practicing. Those weird noises are really produced with good intent although one could scarcely guarantee them to cure a bad case of insomnia.

Prof. Henry Edward Malloy, "Pop" to all the music students, heads the faithful band of music lovers. Under his wing he harbors Miss Lucille Felten, Prof. Hobart Davis, Prof. Paul Beckhelm, and Mrs. Florence Markwell—all members of the music faculty.

The Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, under the direction of Professor Davis and Professor Malloy, respectively, were chosen at the beginning of the fall semester. The Women's Club is composed of thirty voices and the Men's of forty-five. Martha Wright, Chrystabelle Bryan, Margaret Watson, and Winifred Adams composed the Women's Quartette; Hobart Davis, William Malcolm, Keith Forney, and Kirk Raynesford made up the Men's Quartette.

The Women's Quartette—MARTHA WRIGHT, CHRYSTABELLE BRYAN, MARGARET WATSON, and WINNIE ADAMS

The Men's Quartette—HOBART DAVIS, WILLIAM MALCOLM, KEITH FORNEY, and KIRK RAYNESFORD

The State College Trio, composed of Alan Rankin, cello; Mrs. Clara Malloy, violin; and Miss Lucille Felten, piano, gave a splendid spring recital. The same trio performed last year in a very enjoyable concert.

On the night that all the members chose to go to orchestra practice, remarkable results were produced from the baton of the old Maestro, "Pop." The performance of both "Faust" and "Aida" required a good orchestral foundation; both of these performances were skillfully presented. Handel's Messiah, presented on Palm Sunday, was much enhanced by the finished performance of the College orchestra whose spring concert proved very entertaining.

This year the College Band has been under the directorship of a student, Harley Doak, who is an experienced musician and conductor. After conducting tryouts for the regular College Band, he organized a pep band composed of fifteen selected musicians.

At irregular intervals during the school year, the music students gathered in Picken Auditorium. Some came pale with fear, others jittery and ill at ease; a few came to enjoy themselves. Yes, a student recital was being held. These recitals were all presented in a very professional manner and are perhaps one of the most valuable methods to instill poise and professionalism in young aspiring artists.

Not having the thrilling experience that befell the girls when the bus in which they were riding overturned on an icy corner, wrecking the bus without serious injury to the occupants, the Men's Glee Club took three very successful trips, appearing at Webster, Palco, and Wakeeney.

The poor seniors who received a Bachelor of Music degree are required to present a public graduation recital. This spring, Elizabeth Hibbs, Keith Forney, and Chrystabelle Bryan appeared in recitals—Miss Hibbs, from the studio of Professor Beckhelm, graduating in organ, and Forney, baritone, and Miss Bryan, mezzo-soprano, from the studio of Professor Malloy, in a joint recital. Miss Hibbs' recital, postponed because of an eleventh-hour dust storm, was held in the afternoon in the Picken Auditorium.

One of the outstanding musical events of the year was the piano recital presented by Prof. Paul Beckhelm, who was assisted by his wife, Daisy Child Beckhelm. The Beckhelm recital is a beautiful annual event, anticipated by music lovers in the city of Hays as well as on the campus.

The Women's Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club

The College Orchestra, all ready for rehearsal

With a breathing spell unknown to those participating in all the music events, the music students found themselves plunged into laborious rehearsal for the opera, "Aida", which was presented at the opening of the annual Music Festival Week. "Aida" was produced with a professional cast, the students participating in the chorus and orchestra.

Music Week brought all the giggling high school girls and the blasé high school males to our campus. How well the present students recall the thrill that "contest time" used to hold for them!

Struggling to learn to play a clarinet, trumpet, trombone, and flute in nine short weeks; wondering what augmented and diminished sevenths could possibly be; patiently teaching the Picken School children that "Cherries are Ripe;" besides going to endless student rehearsals—these are just a few of the trials of a music student.

GREEK GARRULITY

by BEE JACQUART and
ELIZABETH EPPSTEIN

Presenting a Few Cross Currents in the Lives of the Greek Brotherhoods.

LIFE has staged few more hectic and topsyturvy dramas than those in which the Greeks play the leading roles. All unwittingly they set the campus fashions, rule the organizations, and are blamed for any mishaps that occur on or off the campus. But to these worldly Grecians we award the laurels for making campus life what it is today and keeping college society abreast of the time. To the wearer, the sacred badge signifies all the universal mysticism he shares with the gods.

Come with us, while we dine on ambrosia and nectar.

"Blue Moon" whines from a nickelodeon . . . hamburger scent assails our nostrils . . . smoke gets in our eyes . . . a lackadaisical "Gimme a lemon coke" . . . and the curtain rises on a college conflag.

"You know, gals, this has been a great year in spite of the dust. I thought at first that the barracks boys and the freshmen were going to run things, but the Greeks always hold their own."

"Even with the age-old conflict between the Deltas and Alphas, rush week satisfied everyone pretty well. And the Thetas got some good girls, too. The Tri Sigs and Pi Kaps got off to a bad start but are really holding their own now."

"Certainly is a mighty fine thing for our scholarship shield that S. A. I. isn't in Panhellenic. And that scholarship shield! Do you suppose it will ever be anyone's permanent property? We've all had it, but it just won't stick."

"The Thetas sort of started something when they hired Don Harper for their Snow Ball, didn't they? Seems that we aren't satisfied with cheaper bands any more. And the Dean was so het up over the price of the orchestra that all the snow melted."

"Speaking of parties—have you heard the sad tale of the Phi Mu St. Patrick's party? You know, of course, it was called off because of the dust storm. But did you know that Bob Ford and the pledges worked very industriously hanging little shamrocks all around? And then they couldn't have the party later because the big boys drank all the punch."

"Hey, Scotty! We just happened to be talking about parties. What's the matter with the Phi Sigs and their parties? Oh, that's right though. You've had your party for this year—and at the Lamer, too."

"All praise to the all-powerful Allah" . . . but these pledges would substitute the Active for Allah.

"About that swell big Phi Mu house, Chris. Are you gonna be able to fill it with pledges again next year?"

"Well, if the Sigma Taus can all live in their basement we can get 'em in our house."

"That was a kinda cute idea the Deltas has for their kid party, wasn't it—the one in the Science Hall, I mean. Those gals really have ingenuity."

"Cut that vocabulary. Get back in your old song and dance act."

"Say, the Tri Sigs are still trying to offset their bad music at parties with their clever and artistic dance programs."

"And I'll bet the moon won't be the only thing that's full."

"Let's hope the open houses take all our time now. You know, they are lousy little affairs but you can have fun."

"Me—I'm all for the circles."

"My vote for the best ones goes to the Kappa Betas."

"Why, do they have food at theirs?"

And that's the way it goes! To those who don't know and aren't in the whirl of college life this may seem trivial—even insipid. But to us it's friendship—it's life.

SURPRISES

"Did you hear about—?"

"What! No! Not really! But I thought that—."

And so another surprise is broadcast to eager students on the campus. Any college year is full of surprises and their abundance is not so much a question as their force. The 1934-35 term has been no exception.

Probably the first big surprise to college faculty and students was the large increase in enrollment. As definite figures began to be quoted in the registrar's office, it became known that the enrollment had surpassed any former figure, despite the strained financial conditions prevalent in western Kansas. The dormitories and rooming houses were filled almost to capacity, and alumni and friends of the college joined once more in boasting of the growth of the school.

Many freshmen surprised themselves by winning an exemption rating in the early freshman tests and being excused from the difficulties which survey courses present. We shall not mention here the surprise of those who expected to rate higher than they did.

A surprise vital to the earnest aspiring politicians which are found on every campus came at the time student elections were held, when the representatives of Camp Lewis, with the barracks men a solid bloc behind them, swept freshman class elections and succeeded in placing two of the three cheerleaders.

The whole football season was full of agreeable surprises to Tiger fans. The entire state was surprised when Fort Hays State, hailed everywhere as the underdog, held the Kansas State Wildcats, who later brought home the Big Six Championship, to a 13-0 victory, and almost (as these stories usually run) turned the tables. The conference heralded the "dark horse" which galloped to the C. I. C. lead.

When the championship was finally won, the student body was just a little dazed at the alacrity with which the administration so heartily agreed to the holiday for a victory celebration—and every tired student, as he crawled into bed late that night, wondered at the success of the day—from the program in the morning when everyone clapped loudly and long for every man who had contributed to the victorious team, to the varsity at night when fatigue from the morning hop and afternoon parade was forgotten in a final grand effort at celebration.

Dr. C. E. Barick's appointment to the presidency of the college was not a surprise to his many friends both on and off the campus, but it will be remembered as one of the outstanding events of the year.

Twenty-five co-eds and "Pop" Malloy received a surprise which had its lasting effects, when the State College bus, carrying the Women's Glee Club on a concert tour, eased into a ditch on an icy corner and piled the girls in its top. Aside from numerous bruised spots and a stiffness which others found peculiarly amusing, the group was brought back to Hays in cars without any dangerous complications.

Surprises in the social field should not be overlooked. Portia Freed, the blond freshman from Russell who later joined the forces of Alpha Sigma Alpha, caused several gasps of astonishment by carrying off campus beauty honors when she had been enrolled in school but two weeks and people were still saying, "Who is this Freed girl?"

The Theta Sigs and the Engineers Club provided remarkably good music for parties which were outstanding successes.

Not a few students were dazed at being called before the Student Council to explain their reported late hours. Nearly ten men were more surprised at the Homecoming varsity when they looked for overcoats which had vanished in some miraculous manner.

A few minor surprises could be included here. The student body surprised Mr. Harger, chairman of the Board of Regents, as well as Dean Lee, by filling the auditorium for the former's lecture. The Custer Hall girls were frozen with amazement (and cold) when the much-publicized new heating system failed to heat.

If this "Reveille" is ever published, it will surprise its staff, who still can't quite figure out how everything gets into its right place without divine assistance.

WHERE THEY LIVE!

By JOHN T. BROCK

Dormitories, rooming houses—where do the students live?

The College has two institutions in connection with it where students may get rooms—Camp Lewis for the boys, and Custer Hall for the girls.

CAMP LEWIS is the home of approximately one hundred talented young men from all parts of the state who, due to financial straits, might not otherwise have had the opportunity to further their education. These students have been selected on a scholarship basis, together with character recommendations. The fact that many of them have been honor students in their respective high schools was noticeable in the high quality of scholarship attained, although most of the group are freshmen and had those adjustments to make which handicap nearly everyone in making the change from high school to college.

The two barracks in the official terminology of the Camp are known as the "60" and "40" barracks. The students in "60" work for their board and room; those in "40" work only for their board. A room is set aside for a study hall for the purpose of providing a quiet place for those who want to concentrate. The buildings used for headquarters serve the dual purpose of office and home for Mr. Farquharson, the supervisor, and his family. The recreation room is well supplied with equipment for the boys' entertainment.

Dr. W. D. Moreland, of the department of social science, is chairman of the barracks board and has done much toward building the Camp from a mere dream into an actuality.

The activities of the barracks have done much to arouse interest in campus politics and student affairs. Beginning with the fall elections, the men at the Camp united solidly to sweep the freshman class elections, putting Richard White, Norton, into the class presidency, and Colvin Kindschi, Liberal, and Ray Thurlow, Hill City, as freshman student council representatives. Donald Bybee and Keith Sebelius were Camp Lewis candidates who were elected cheer leaders.

Government at Camp Lewis is planned and maintained by the residents themselves. Group leaders are chosen by the students and the barracks committee and rules are both enacted and enforced by resident groups.

Camp Lewis, with its necessary equipment and supervision, is one of the most progressive steps taken by the College this year toward providing both housing and employment for young men. It has been no small project and its development into a comfortable and congenial residence has been brought about by no little planning.

Fort Hays State is the only school supporting a place like Camp Lewis. School authorities say that they hope some day to be able to give this opportunity for education to 500 students. The Administration intends to keep the Camp as a permanent thing.

Custer Hall is the girls' dormitory, presided over by Mrs. Ethel McKenna, or "Mother Mac" as she is affectionately called by those staying there. To students who have not met her personally, she is the individual who keeps the lights flickering about 10:30 p. m. on school nights and at midnight on Friday and Saturday nights, while the male population of the College, like Custer, makes a "last stand," bids fond adieus and scurries off wondering what college the author of "It's Three O'Clock in the Morning" attended.

Between the hours of five and eight in the evening, the student body en masse goes to its respective telephones to concern itself with the fact as to whether or not the evenings of the residents of Custer Hall have been properly arranged. The term, "proper arrangement" is a subjective value, depending much upon the viewpoint of the caller.

Leaving Custer Hall is a regretful occurrence, whether you are one of the regular evening visitors or have just come to obtain information. The last object that you will notice, provided you are there for information, is a beautiful picture depicting "Custer's Last Stand." It recalls to mind that at one time the vicinity was not the last word in civilization but a wild frontier which had to be mastered by the courageous fighting against seemingly overpowering odds. Those who are here now do not have a wild frontier to master, but a decidedly disastrous economic condition which must be conquered with much the same courage that was used by Custer in his "Last Stand."

Glimpses of Custer Hall and Camp Lewis, with some of its more illustrious inhabitants. We couldn't guarantee if the interior views of the barracks were posed or not—things seem very quiet.

TO THE VICTORS

By CLARA NICHOLAS

TO THE victors belong the spoils, and well have the Fort Hays Tigers, C. I. C. football champions, been spoiled. It all started when the Tigers cinched the championship one afternoon; then the next Monday morning the team decided to celebrate by not having school, so they started by clearing the Science Hall of classes. Then someone blew the assembly whistles over at the power plant.

The next event on the program was an assembly in honor of the team. Each member had the privilege—and duty—of exhibiting his oratorical ability, which was always generously applauded.

Then came the morning varsity and in the afternoon, the free picture show, which, however, the team did not attend—they were practicing for the Wesleyan game. In the evening was the big free Victory Varsity, with everybody in school there.

To the fortunate members of the squad who had made the required grade average, small gold footballs were awarded; even "Friday" and "Saturday" were given gold footballs as champion water boys.

But the real celebration for the team members came with the banquet given in honor of the team. The alumni organization, the college, the Hays Chamber of Commerce—all united in their efforts; Harry Kipke was invited as principal speaker; a special program was arranged. But the big thing was the selection of the waitresses—the 20 most beautiful co-eds on the campus were selected by the team to serve at the banquet.

Yea, the Tigers have been spoiled—but what of it? They deserve it!

One of the most beautiful places on our campus—the rock garden. Under Professor Albertson's direction the garden is being extended.

CAMPUS IMPROVEMENTS

FORT Hays Kansas State College is growing, not only in size and culture, but also in campus beauty and convenience. Under the direction of Prof. F. W. Albertson, Prof. Jim Rouse, and Dr. W. D. Moreland, members of the faculty and directors of student employment, many new conveniences and improvements have arisen on the campus and many others are planned for the near future.

One of the greatest attractions on the campus is the rock garden and lily pool. In winter, spring, summer, and fall it has its own special beauty. People for miles around come here especially to see the rock garden, and citizens of desolate western Kansas farms sigh a little with envy of its loveliness.

Last spring, the historic and romantic old wooden Custer Hall bridge was supplanted by the strong, practical steel one which cuts off many steps to the Hall and provides assurance against washing out in time of flood. The banks of the creek above and below the bridge have been cleared and landscaped and a boat landing built.

For the convenience of the football fans, a great new sign-score-board has been built by Prof. Ed Davis' woodworkers and installed at the west end of Lewis Field. It was paid for by contributions from alumni members of the "K" Club.

New building projects include the renovation of the old barracks to house the men at Camp Lewis, and the campus utility house at the west end of the campus to house the greenhouse employees.

In the interests of velvety lawns and flourishing shrubbery, the campus irrigation system will be further extended in the spring and may be built to include Camp Lewis. At the present time, approximately three hundred and fifty students are on the employment lists, aiding in keeping our campus neat and making it more beautiful.

No explanations necessary; the pictures speak for themselves.

"I WON'T TELL A SOUL!"

OH-LA-LA, paging Mr. Grapevine Editor, or is it a gal—here is a summary of what are believed by many to be the outstanding events of the year. This is merely a disguised yellow sheet, my dear young readers, with the yellow washed off by the censors, who are as severe as the Kansas Board of Review.

But to get on to the scandal—let me refer you first and foremost to the little Underwood female who came to school, pledged Alpha Sig, flunked chemistry, and was a big success. To name all her admirers would fill this page, but ah—the victor, the ever-present “cab callo-way” Stever, who walked straight into her heart, fresh from a heart-breaking romance with June Rader, and has been clinging to her ever since. Jeanne is in the picture above, but as to just which one it is this time,—on, no, we'll never tell. You might be in love with him yourself. Everybody else is.

But there are other girls in school—and other sororities. Take the Delta Sigs, for instance, but don't take them out. Not, of course, that a Delta wouldn't behave like a lady and uphold the ever-righteous standards of Delta Sigma Epsilon, but you might succumb, like Thurlow, Davidson, Park, or even Tom Brown, who disappeared completely to recover when Schwartzkopf returned his pin.

And then there was the Theta pledge Petersen, and her brunette running mate. Petersen, you remember, went to LaCrosse to a movie one night and had a flat tire coming back. Pardon us, Dean, we didn't say she started with one.

The mob scene above shows what bad little freshmen get when they have to be shown that the upperclassmen always triumph.

Elizabeth Eppstein, Fort Hays State's prize sophisticate, won her laurels when she met the supreme test and came out on top. And if you don't think losing a petticoat would embarrass you, just try it sometime in front of the Coliseum between classes.

The dust storms provided relaxation for many and gave the gals a chance to come to school looking like Delta Sigs from Emporia. Pardon us, McCandless, we forgot about your heart's desire.

A LAST WORD OF APPRECIATION

To those who contributed toward the success of the 1935 REVEILLE.

This book is not the work of any one or two individuals, but represents the collective effort of a great number.

We particularly want to express our appreciation to those loyal merchants whose advertising has made this book possible.

It is our sincere desire that this book will measure up to the expectations of the students and prove to be the kind of a book it was intended for—A REMINDER OF HAPPY COLLEGE DAYS.

A Half-Million Annuals

This yearbook represents twenty years of school annual printing and binding experience. It was produced by the organization which has printed and bound, under one roof, a half-million fine college and university yearbooks, representing 150 million printed pages, for schools in twelve states.

Each staff has its problems. In dealing with 460 such staffs, we have learned to advise them wisely and to produce books they are proud to distribute on their campus. 920 editors and business managers endorse our thoroughness and integrity.

When a staff signs a Midland contract, it enlists the aid of a College Printing Department composed of older men of many years' experience, associated with younger men who have the yearbook staffs' viewpoint. The entire book is built under one roof . . . typography, presswork, binding and cover . . . the responsibility of one group of craftsmen.
